GENERAL NEWS.

A Terrific Cyclone and Rain Storm Devastates Western Arkansas.

DEATH OF GEN. JOHN G. BARNARD, OF THE ENGINEER CORPS

Ex-Governor C. C. Washburn, of Wisconsin, Dies at Hot Springs, Ark., From an Attack of Paralysis.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

Murder and Suicide

[illegible]

Death of General Barnard

DETROIT, May 14.—Gen. John G. Barnard [illegible] Russell, Mass. [illegible] Department of Engineers [illegible] the Russell House [illegible] remains will be taken [illegible]

An Excursion Trip

[illegible], May 14.—The first [illegible] from Richmond via the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad arrived to-night with a large excursion party from Virginia. The party numbering between 200 and 300 persons came [illegible] after the [illegible] club races.

Baptist Resolutions.

GREENVILLE, S. C., May 14.—The Baptist convention adopted the report of the committee on resolutions of the board of foreign missions [illegible] special missionary work among Jews, they having be[illegible] so scattered as to come under the influence of other missionaries.

A Crazy Man's Freaks.

MARYSVILLE, May 14.—At a farm house in Sutter county this morning Joseph Hyer, a crazy man, fatally stabbed Napoleon Theodore, one of his watches, and then set fire to the granary. He then came to Marysville, and was put under arrest. The fire destroyed the granary and damaged the house. Hyer has been crazy for several weeks.

Attempted Blackmail.

PAWPAW (Mich.), May 14.—B. A. Olney, the wealthiest man of this county began suit yesterday against Jane Marley to restrain her from collecting or disposing of a note for $20,000. He alleges that in December she got possession of $50,000 in securities without his knowledge, and when discovered threatened to destroy them unless he gave her $20,000. He accordingly gave her the note.

Maritime Mischance.

NEW YORK, May 14.—The steamship Neckar from Bremen to-day reports May 9th in latitude 42 deg 45 min longitude 46 having passed a steamer bark rigged, red funnel, black top, in tow of a three masted schooner steamer rigged, funnel white and black stripes on top, steering east and northeast. The two steamers went along gallantly with weather fine.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., May 14.—The stranded steamship Pliny will be a complete wreck before daylight. This morning she broke apart just forward the smoke stack and listed a little off shore. Water rushed through the gap with great violence and swept over her from stem to stern. The main deck was soon partially torn off, and the sea broke a hole in her starboard side one hundred feet long. Partitions separating cabins from the hold were broken down by heavy seas that surged through the shattered iron plates of the vessel. The baggage of passengers was taken ashore and the captain's instruments also removed and cabin drawers cut open and all goods possible taken ashore. The sea is still high, and the beach for several miles below the wreck covered with coffee bags carried out of the vessel by the sea. Four boats and large pieces of joiner work came ashore. Three of the boats have large holes. The cargo was insured in Atlantic and Orient companies.

Serious Flood in Arkansas.

LITTLE ROCK, May 13.—The Gazette's Jacksonport special says: A destructive overflow has visited this section. The water stands 21 feet 8 inches above low water mark and has fallen three inches. Not a foot of dry ground remains in town except Jefferson street, which affords a refuge to all stock the citizens possess. Quite a number of families have been compelled to take refuge in the upper story of store houses. The whole country for miles around is one sea of water and damage to crops and stock is in the thousands. A large portion of Oil Trough and Big Bend bottoms are under water and damage to the wheat crop is terrible. The present flood is the highest since 1867. If a second rise should come "good bye to everything." The weather is clear with a strong northwest wind and hopes are entertained the worst is over.

Gazette's special from Batesville, Ark., says: This section has just been visited by an unprecedented rain storm, commencing at 8 o'clock Monday evening and continuing in torrents 24 hours without a moment's cessation, swelling rivers and creeks to a height beyond the knowledge of the oldest inhabitants and sweeping everything before it. Mills, houses, bridges and fencing are all washed away and the flood has utterly obliterated the entire crop on bottom lands. Not only the crops but the soil is all gone, leaving only a bare clay surface. Maxfield & Bros. woolen mill, valued at $20,000, and Smith's flour mill, valued at $5000, are both a total loss. Rutherford's mill was damaged $3000. A number of other mills not yet heard from, are all believed to be a total loss.

More Flood Reports.

LITTLE ROCK, May 13.—The Gazette's Hot Springs special says: This locality has been flooded with a forty-eight hours rain, beginning Monday. The damage has affected railway and telegraphic lines and general traffic, and has rendered Hot Springs literally isolated from the rest of the world. The damage by the overflow of Hot Springs creek in the city alone can't be estimated at less than $30,000. The rainfall extended for many miles around and still continues. The Hot Springs railroad sustained immense loss, the track for many miles being washed away and three iron bridges completely demolished. A large force of laborers are at work day and night repairing the road. White's mill, the largest in this section, was swept away and the extensive vineyard of Dr. Lawrence almost totally destroyed. In the fertile valley of Sabine river and its tributaries throughout the county many rich plantations are flooded and practically ruined. As yet the total damage in the county cannot be accurately estimated, but it is placed by some at $150,000.

The Cyclone in Arkansas.

LITTLE ROCK, May 13.—A Hot Springs special to the Gazette gives the following particulars of the cyclone in Montgomery county on Monday evening: The storm came unheralded and was of a few minutes duration. It swept from a northwesterly direction and barely missed the towns of Silver City and Mount Ida. At Caddo Cove the Swinton's residence was destroyed and four persons in the house were carried some distance and alighted in a well, but were rescued. Two of Swinton's sons were fatally injured. S. Bates' residence was demolished and the several occupants severely injured. Rufus Barrett, Riley Wheeler and James Bates lost their residences, the two former persons sustaining dangerous injuries. S. M. Tattlebaum's home near Silver City was destroyed and the occupants all injured, though none fatally. At South Fork the postoffice was lifted like a feather and carried away. W. L. Burton, the postmaster, lost everything, including his office. The extensive farm of S. P. McKinney, probably the largest and finest in that county, suffered much damage. The grist and steam sawmill and cotton gin together with 50 other buildings were destroyed. The families occupying the residences were nearly all maimed or killed. Mrs. Jas. Eldesen sustained fatal injuries and probably also Mrs. Dowdry. The large church was totally demolished and Dr. Gilbert and family seriously hurt. Hundreds of sheep, hogs, horses and cattle were lost or killed, and $5000 in silver and currency scattered to the winds and lost. The damage to McKinney's property will amount to $30,000. Jerry Watkins' rich plantation on Ouachita river is wholly destroyed, also Shelton Fulton's valuable farm. Total damages incurred cannot fall far short of $150,000. This will include damages in the entire county. It is safe to say at least 100 families are homeless and without shelter. Your correspondent was shown a letter in which it was said seven or eight people were killed outright and several hundred wounded. Citizens have met at Mount Ida and issued an appeal for aid and money and provisions are being forwarded from this city as fast as possible.

Amusement Notes.

NEW YORK, May 13.—David Belasco's new play "La Belle Russe," produced at Wallack's Monday night, was the only new venture of the past week. Critics disagree as to the merits of "La Belle Russe," but agree it is bound to be a popular play, and if the enthusiasm of critics in the first night's audience can be relied on as an indication of enthusiasm of the general public there can be no question as to the popularity of "La Belle Russe." All criticism to the contrary notwithstanding, Rose Coghlan has not had so powerful a part since Wallack was forced to remove "Forget Me Not" from his boards. In the role of La Belle Russe Miss Coghlan surpasses in strength and finish the powers she exhibited in the character of Stephanie in "Forget Me Not," a character New Yorkers before agreed upon as being her strongest impersonation.

Lavetia's comic opera, "The Widow," so long talked of and so many times promised, was at last produced by the Hess Opera company Monday night at Standard theater. "The Widow" is a rather highly seasoned conglomeration of half a dozen popular comic operas of the present time, but is bright and clear and promises to take in spite of the plot, which is rather more considerably absurd than the plots of comic operas usually are. The music is bright and well sung, as it must be with Mrs. Seguin Wallace as the Widow and Castle as the lover, although Mark Smith as Marquis of Beausaut carried off the honors of the evening.

The appearance of Mlle. [illegible] at [illegible] Square theater as Camille disappointed the few people who hoped for a fine performance [illegible] promise of her impersonation of the [illegible] previous week. Camille proved too trying for the would be actress.

A New Railroad Scheme.

CHEYENNE, Wy., May 13.—Articles of incorporation of the Dakota, Wyoming & Western railroad were filed here to-day. They provide for the construction of a main road from the eastern Wyoming line to Yellowstone National park and also a branch from Cheyenne north to intersect the main road near Hat creek. Five hundred miles is estimated as the length to be built in Wyoming. The incorporators are Wm. J. Nichols, Franklin H. Smith, Thos. H. Wagstaff and Austin Stevens of New York, Robert Kennedy and Hector D. McKay of Denver, and Jas. Hayley, of Dakota. Capital fixed at $12,500,000.

LONDON LETTERS.

The Situation in Regard to Irish Matters as Seen by Correspondents.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.

NEW YORK, May 13.—The Tribune's London cable says: Amid all the excitements of the week the gravest political incident is the complete rupture of the coalition between the government and Mr. Parnell. The ministers last week fully believed that they had secured the co-operation of Mr. Parnell in their effort for restoration of order in Ireland in exchange for amendments in the land act. The alliance remained unshaken by the Dublin murders, the Parnellites assuming every appearance of lugubrious distress that the catastrophe called for. Their grief was probably sincere enough, since the assassination threatened to unsettle the existing political combination. The extraordinary confidence of the government in the arrangements with Parnell was indicated by the protests of the liberal press on Monday against allowing the alliance to be disturbed by Saturday's events. Word was passed around that there was to be no panic and no vindictiveness. The liberals having engineered Mr. Forster out of the cabinet, and believing themselves masters of the situation and sure of their reclaimed Irish allies, were determined to persevere in their new policy.

Politically speaking all went well till Thursday, when Sir William Harcourt disclosed the provisions of the new prevention of crime bill. When he sat down, the whole fabric of the liberal Irish confederacy so patiently and ingeniously put together had collapsed. Messrs. Parnell, Healy and Dillon rose successively and denounced the new measure in terms of the fiercest hatred. The intense passion with which Mr. Parnell spoke plainly denoted his conviction that he had been out manœuvred or overreached. Consternation prevailed in the radical camp, but the overwhelming force of party and public opinion prevented open dissensions and compelled an all but unanimous liberal support for a measure which many radicals privately protest against. The ministers affirm that the principles of this bill were settled last week. Mr. Chamberlain assented to and approved its main features, which were little altered, if at all, in consequence of the assassination, but no Irish member was consulted. What amazes every practical politician outside of the cabinet is that the ministers should have supposed for one moment that it was possible to [illegible] Mr. Parnell's support for a really efficient bill. The universal expression of Sir William Harcourt's statement is that this is the most stringent measure of coercion ever framed, a measure which if worked in the same spirit may paralyze the whole machinery of intimidation and terror on which the promoters of Irish disaffection rely. Hence Mr. Parnell's sudden hostility and hence his irritating announcement of the resumption of his former attitude of irreconcilable enmity to the government.

The ministers nevertheless cling to the hope of a conciliation [illegible] of the Parnellites, but [illegible] the Irish people from [illegible] measures announcing last night that they would bring up the arrears bill on Monday. The Irish home rule press warns them in advance to expect nothing from that opinion unless they abandon the prevention of crime bill. The English press, without distinction of party, certain radical organs excepted, warns them that English opinion will not tolerate further experiment in the direction of a compromise with lawlessness. I know from unquestionable sources that [illegible] members of the government were prepared to resign if Thursday's measure proved unsatisfactory. One of them yesterday summed up the situation by the phrase: "Parnell does not govern this country so much as he did."

All controversy as to whether the assassins really intended to murder Lord Frederick Cavendish has ceased now that it is universally understood he was deliberately selected as a victim. The latest intelligence and latest belief of the police is that Earl Spencer would have been murdered had the opportunity favored. Nobody longer denies that the assassinations were planned for a direct political purpose. This was the Irish answer to England's latest message of peace. Mr. Parnell's assertions that the murders were directed against his new policy is considered to prove if true that leadership of the active party has passed out of his hands.

Englishmen are disposed to believe Mr. Parnell's present abhorrence of the crime. Nevertheless they hold him responsible for the murder, as the culmination of a long series of assassinations which he failed to condemn. His appearance in the house on Monday in the character of a mourner evoked protest in several quarters. The parliamentary proceedings, with that exception, were deeply impressive throughout. The demeanor of the country destroyed the encomium the English press had bestowed. England, like her government, is still ready to grant every measure of relief to Ireland, but its proposal to make Parnell a policeman has ceased to be possible.

The feeling against the queen's holding drawing room days on the days of Burke's and Lord Cavendish's funerals is expressed in papers of all shades and still more strongly in private by all classes.

The radical animosity against Mr. Forster, unslacked by the success of the machination resulting in his resignation, finds expression in accusation of the efforts on his part to embarrass his former colleagues, whom in fact he heartily supports. The country, the Chamberlain clique excepted, regards Mr. Forster's opposition to release of the suspects as entirely justified by subsequent events.

Sir Charles Dilke's refusal of the chief secretaryship seriously displeased Mr. Gladstone and it surprised his friends, who generally considered it an unfortunate mistake, leaving Sir Charles Dilke in the position of having demanded and having been refused a seat in the cabinet, besides risking the misconception of his motive for declining a dangerous post. Mr. Trevelyan's appointment is universally approved. He belongs to the school of reason and not to that of sentimental radicalism. He is of proved administrative capacity, is popular in parliament and not unpopular in Ireland.

From the World's Correspondent

NEW YORK, May 14.—The World's London cable says: The alliance of the liberals with the Parnellites, scarcely a fortnight old, has come to a sudden end. The tragedy in the Phoenix park has shown the government that although Mr. Parnell and other main regardless leaders may come to terms, they can only speak for themselves and the movement for complete separation will go on unchecked. Last Saturday night Mr. Gladstone and the people of Ireland saw for the first time that Mr. Parnell was not the supreme arbitrator of events in Ireland, but that its ruler is the mysterious organization even more powerful than the land league. Mr. Parnell has been obliged to invoke the protection of the police, or at least his friends have done so for him, against this enmity that is entirely beyond the reach of ministerial blandishment and cannot be ennobled like a patriot. Its next heavy blow will probably be struck here in the heart of London in order to inspire fresh ardor in the cabinet.

The premier long ago avowed the doctrine that violence would lead to a concession and the unknown leaders of the Irish national movement are determined to take him at his word. This much is certain: Mr. Parnell's bargain with the government has ruined him. The ministry will infallibly treat him and his party with contempt, regarding them as no longer formidable. This much is shown by the introduction of the iron clad coercion bill to which I have alluded. Every minister is now carefully guarded and a vigorous watch is kept over Mr. Gladstone's house night and day. He and his colleagues have swung back to the pale of panic, and it is altogether probable that in less than a year they will concede the demand of the Irish for home rule. Public opinion remains phlegmatic, while at the same time radical caucuses in all parts of the country take care to have messages of sympathy and pledges of support come up. Mr. Gladstone [illegible] see that he is met at railway stations by respectful crowds. In short the great radical machine is working at full pressure.

Parnell, Dillon and Davitt are suspected by their [illegible] having a [illegible]

WASHINGTON NEWS.

The Court [illegible] in the Guiteau Case Unable to Agree.

[illegible] A NEW TRIAL NOT IMPROBABLE.

Another [illegible] Added to the Board—[illegible]

[illegible]

Guiteau's Fate.

[illegible] Everything [illegible]

Will his counsel make any further efforts in his behalf? They have.

Oh yes. Reed will attempt to get the case up again on a writ of habeas corpus, but he will fail in it. The decision of the court on Monday will be final as there is no appeal. It cannot get it to the supreme court of the United States on appeal, and as that court will not meet again until October, there cannot be any judicial proceedings which can interfere with the sentence being carried out. Reed will probably appeal to the president for commutation of sentence to imprisonment for life as a last resort, but that too will fail. My judgment is that the president will not interfere and Guiteau will be hanged the last day of June as sentenced.

Unable to Agree

The four judges before whom the bill of exceptions in the Guiteau case was argued were in consultation four hours on Saturday trying to reach a decision. It is said they failed and the court is equally divided, and argument will be ordered before five judges. Another consultation, however, will take place and an effort be made to harmonize the views of the four judges and secure a decision if possible.

The chief justice and Justice Hagner are reported of the opinion that the exceptions should be overruled, and Justices MacArthur and James that they should be sustained. If a decision is not reached a new argument will be ordered with Justice Wylie also upon the bench, making five judges. Should the exceptions as to jurisdiction be sustained a new trial would take place in New Jersey. Guiteau's counsel there would again raise the question of the jurisdiction upon the ground the assault and death must take place in the same jurisdiction in order to render the prisoner legally amenable.

The French Spoliation Claims.

The report of Senator Frye in behalf of senate committee on claims makes a strong argument in favor of the recently reported bill to provide for ascertainment of these claims. The report concludes with the statement: The gravity of the case and justice to both government and claimants demand a settlement of the vexed questions involved by an authority whose findings shall be final and conclusive.

A Slight Chance for Guiteau

There is a possibility that the court in banc of the district of Columbia may decide the Guiteau trial invalid and reverse the decision of the court below. Court in banc was in session five hours yesterday considering arguments and came to no conclusion. There are two points in the question, that of jurisdiction and of erroneous record in admitting the testimony of Mrs. Dunmire, Guiteau's divorced wife. The latter point is the principal one. The common law rule against allowing disclosures on the witness stand by either husband or wife of secrets of married life is emphatic, and in the district of Columbia it is supplemented by a special act prohibiting such testimony. The validity of this act has been sustained by the supreme court. During the Guiteau trial Mrs. Dunmire was asked if she observed anything in the course of her five years of married life with Guiteau to indicate that he was insane. She replied in the negative. This question and answer is the one upon which the defense is to-night building its hopes of a favorable decision. The government attorneys insist that this question did not involve a disclosure of marital secrets. Reed, Guiteau's counsel, claims that the answer to this question involved the conclusions of observation during the married period and was therefore illegal.

The Tariff Commission Appointments

The president said to a friend yesterday that the most difficult appointments he had yet been called upon to make were members of the tariff commission. He appreciated the necessity for immediate selection of the commissioners. It is believed the president has abandoned all idea of giving special interests representation on the commission. There are only nine commissioners to be chosen and it would be impossible without making invidious distinctions to select men representing special branches of industry. It is settled that a majority of the commission will be protectionists, probably of a moderate order. The chairman of the commission is likely to be ex-Secretary Kirkwood of Iowa. He favors a tariff for revenue only, but it is thought his general reputation for fairness and his identity with the agricultural interest of the west will make him a desirable member of the commission. It has been practically decided to make Edward Atkinson of Boston, the great authority on textiles, a member of the commission, although it is possible that a change may be made in the New England representative before the nominations are sent to the senate. The south, middle states, northwest and probably the southwest will be represented, although the middle states may get a preponderance of commissioners. The Pacific coast will not, as your correspondent is at present advised, be represented on the commission.

Washington Notes.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The house on Monday will act on the motions from committee to suspend the rules and pass bills.

Harris from the naval affairs committee will again ask the house to fix a day for consideration of the bill to build ten new ships of war for the navy.

The committee on private land claims may be reached in regular order to-morrow, and if this is done Mr. Muldrow will probably ask the passage of the bill for relief of Wm. McGarrahan.

Senator Logan is expected back from Hot Springs to-morrow. He is greatly improved in health, so much so as to hurry to Washington for the special purpose of fighting the bill for the relief of Fitz John Porter.

Congressional Notes.

The bill to extend charters of national banks will be taken up again in the house Tuesday and an effort made to reach a final vote.

The pension bill, and legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill, will probably be reported Tuesday in the senate.

The five per cent bill will be taken up Monday. It provides for the payment to various public land states of five per centum of the value of all lands, reckoned at government minimum price, which have been located by soldiers' scrip or bounty land warrants within their respective boundaries.

A New Reward Offered

DUBLIN, May 14.—Government has issued a special proclamation offering a reward of £1,000 for information leading to the arrest of any one harboring the assassins of Cavendish and Burke or assisting in their escape. Persons harboring the assassins are liable to be sentenced to penal servitude for life. Information must be given within three months. It is believed the assassins are still in Dublin.

Important Information Obtained.

CORK, May 14.—The government are in possession of information leading to important revelations, and three men have been arrested at a hotel here.

His Name is Rush.

DUBLIN, May 14.—It is said they have found out the name of the man who drove the car containing the murderers. It is Rush.

The State of Affairs in Dublin

A Dublin special to New York says: Although since the removal of Chief Hillier of the constabulary force but few facts have been allowed to reach the public concerning the operations of the police in connection with the recent assassinations, it is known that several new and important arrests have been made within 24 hours. It is rumored this evening detectives have arrested four men whom they found at Wynne's Hotel in lower Abbey street on the charge of having assassinated Lord Cavendish and Under Secretary Burke. Wynne's Hotel is close by the office of the United Ireland newspaper and is one of the most respectable hotels in the city, being patronized only by the wealthy. The reticence of police when questioned as to the truth of the rumor, with the fact that all inquiries at the hotel are met with an evasive answer and the reply that the proprietor is not in, has caused considerable excitement and leads to the general belief the arrests are the most important yet made. Inquiries at the central office are met by curt refusal on the part of the police to converse on the subject.

After the Assassins.

DUBLIN, May 14.—From information that the assassins are still in the city the conclusion is drawn that they are afraid that if they should be separated one would turn traitor. At least twelve were engaged in the tragedy. It is believed that in the cab which stood near the scene of the murder and loitering under the trees were armed men ready to effect a rescue in case the actual assassins were surprised. The police have now issued a description of the four men in the car. Two are described as being about thirty years of age with sandy hair, one about thirty-five, of stout build and dark complexion with a hollow bridge to his nose, and the other about twenty, with a small black moustache. The driver is described as between thirty-five and forty, with a red bloated face. A car driver from Kingstown named Hodger was arrested at Moville and sent to Dublin. There is reason to believe that the assassins had intended to murder eight persons.

The McMinnville and Forest Grove base ball clubs will play a match game at the former place on the 8th of this month.

Mrs. E. Byerly, an old resident of Yamhill county, died suddenly near McMinnville on the 4th inst. of pneumonia, aged sixty-two years.

Mrs. Mary M. Johns died in Albany on the 4th inst., aged 21 years. Her remains were taken to Astoria for interment beside those of her husband.

Wm. Hume Sunday night caught a black bear in his trap back of the cannery which weighed 250 pounds; and last night he caught another which weighed 400 pounds.

Gradually the woods are being cleared away between Hillsboro and Cornelius, and it won't be long until Forest Grove and Cornelius will stand in full sight of the county seat.

A paper is being circulated in Gervais and vicinity for subscriptions to build a school house. $3000 was subscribed in two days. Arrangements have been made for the erection of the building, and the intention is to have it completed by September 1st.

A boy named Storey, son of a man by that name who lives near the Jobe farm in Washington county, while chopping a tree accidentally struck his little brother in the temple, cutting a fearful gash. The wound was sewed up by a surgeon and the boy is doing well.

Dr. Pryce's horse slipped in going over a bridge near the outskirts of Cornelius last Tuesday and fell with the doctor underneath, but in such a position that the horse could not get up. He shouted until he was almost exhausted, when three men came and got rails under the horse and pried it up and pulled him out. The doctor was not seriously hurt.

Andrew Winters of Newberg suffered a severe loss by fire on Friday, 28th ult. Mr. W. was away from home at the time of the accident, when his little boys took some straw from the barn and carrying it a short distance [illegible] Mrs. Winters [illegible] work.

Professor Anderson, accompanied by two instructors, will arrive in Walla Walla about July and begin the organization of the Whitman seminary on a [illegible] basis. Forty business men of the city have guaranteed the salaries of three teachers for at least five years. The board of trustees will at once commence the improvement of the grounds and building, and intend to make the institution and surroundings comfortable and attractive. They have also made arrangements to replace the old desks with those of the latest patent. School will not open until fall.

Washington Standard: Our townsman Mr. A. J. Burr deserves the credit of being the champion as well as the veteran cranberry raiser of the sound country. He is now transplanting cranberry plants from oyster bay with a view of largely increasing their yield and improving their quality. The plants are taken from his grounds west from Tumwater, and for several days during the week just passed a ton or more of them put up in bales might have been seen piled up on Ward's wharf awaiting shipment. The enterprise reflects much credit on its projector. We have every reason to believe that the cultivation of the cranberry in this part of the country can be made very profitable.

A lad aged about 10 years met a horrible death last Sunday in the neighborhood of Prescott. The young fellow was leading a horse with a view to stake him out to grass and thoughtlessly wound the rope around his body. The horse was suddenly frightened and started on a run, throwing the unfortunate boy down, who being unable to extricate himself from the tangled rope was dragged upon the ground until dead. When found his body was horribly mangled and bruised. His folks, who were residing in the neighborhood of the accident, are late arrivals in the country and so far their names have not been learned.

Reports of the Seattle city assessor show that during the past year there have been built within the city limits 105 buildings. This does not include those commenced since last January, nor those in the [illegible] and D. T. Denny additions. The total assessed valuation of these 105 new buildings is $9[illegible],000. The city assessment this year is $3,936,000 against $1,600,000 last year. The merchants and business men gave in a valuation equal to more than last year. The result of this will be that the city tax this year will not exceed six mills on the dollar as against eleven and one half mills last year, besides making a much better showing.

Johnson's logging crew on the Yakima number 100 men. The drive moves ahead about a mile and a half a day. To lookers on it is fun to see the boys go up into the water up to their waists the very first thing in the morning. We are now getting below the snow line and the weather is fine. Until within a few days the weather was disagreeably changeable, snow, sunshine and rain all coming the same day. The river is very low and the logs are constantly jamming on the shoals. If the present warm weather lasts a few days the river will be made much better for the work. The river is naturally a shallow one. The supply boats often strike bottom, and so crooked is the stream that boatmen find navigation to be quite difficult.

THE NEW LAND COMMISSIONER.

The following from the St. Paul Pioneer Press will interest all who are inquisitive as to the personality of Col. Lamborn, the new land commissioner of the Northern Pacific:

Charles B. Lamborn is a native of Chester county, Pa., of Quaker descent. At the outbreak of the war he entered the army and served some time on the staff of Gen. Meade in the army of the Potomac, and later joined the Nineteenth Pennsylvania cavalry as lieutenant colonel. He served with this regiment until the close of the war, acquitting himself with great credit. At the close of the war he entered the service of the Pennsylvania railroad as clerk to the general superintendent, Dr. E. H. Williams, at Altoona, Pa. In 1867 he was elected secretary to the Kansas Pacific railway, and in 1878 he resigned that position and was elected president of the National land company, the control of which was owned by the Kansas Pacific railway company. This land company was made the medium for the sale of lands belonging to the Kansas Pacific and proved a great success, demonstrating Col. Lamborn's ability as an experienced land agent.

When the Denver and Rio Grande railway became prominent he severed his connection with the Kansas Pacific and was elected a director of that company and took charge of all its subsidiary interests in other companies. Among these he was made vice president of the Colorado Coal and Iron company, which he organized and for which he raised funds necessary to develop it. This company has proved a great success.

Col. Lamborn is a college graduate, a man of great vigor, intelligence and culture, and of the highest integrity. He has the confidence and backing of a wide circle of capitalists, and takes with him to his position as land commissioner of the Northern Pacific railroad company a ripe experience of land matters that cannot but prove of great value to the Northern Pacific and the great Northwest.

Joaquin Miller

Chicago Times.

About eleven years ago Joaquin Miller, the poet of the Sierras, bought three registered Oregon $100 war bonds from a broker in Portland, Oregon. There was an assignment on the back of the bonds purporting to assign them to ——— as payee, but it has since turned out that the signature to the assignment is not genuine. The bonds were executed by a genuine power of attorney authorizing ——— to sell and sign the bonds, but no assignment was ever made under this power. Under the department rule regulating the sale of government bonds the power of attorney in ——— is not recognized as valid. The bonds have been presented at the treasury department for redemption. A certain party in Oregon claims to be owner of the bonds and has filed a caveat against their payment. The matter was presented to Judge Lawrence, the first comptroller, a few days ago, and he has decided that payment cannot be paid to either of the parties on the evidence submitted. By the direction of the secretary, however, Mr. Joaquin Miller was advised that if he desired it the attorney general would at his expense file a bill of interpleader in Oregon to determine who is the rightful owner to the bonds. It appeared as if the claim of Mr. Miller [illegible] informal [illegible] a just one it might be a proper case for relief at the hands of congress.

PARTIES AND POLITICS.

At this time no great political questions press for solution, and there is a good deal of indifference to the merely partisan aspects of politics. Certainly there is much less partisan acerbity than for a long time past. Few are sorry for it. Yet there are few indeed who have not a conviction that objects in connection with government and its administration, which they regard as important, can on the whole be better secured or promoted by adherence to one party rather than another. Hence choice of party is made. By persons of candor and discrimination who make this choice it is not pretended that the whole measures of the party they incline to meet their approval. Much is criticised, much is objected to; and yet on the whole there is a balance of preference that leads to acceptance of a particular party, or rather to adhesion to it—this being necessary in order to make individual action at all effective. Sensible men know how useless it is to act a disconnected part. It may be said that the man has no principles at all, or certainly that he is without judgment for enforcing them, who refuses all co-operation with party, on the ground that no party meets his wishes or expectations.

Upon multitudes whose views are in the main in accord with the objects of the republican party the obligations of party sit loosely: they prefer to act with the party in the main rather than to admit that they "belong" to it; they indicate their objections to measures or tendencies that they cannot approve; they criticise party methods and party management, refuse to follow men whose motives are manifestly selfish, corrupt or otherwise unworthy, and as occasion seems to require, they scratch their ballots with a free discrimination. All this is fully consistent with the duty of intelligent citizenship. But here interposes the democratic partisan. He notes your objections and criticisms, and forthwith invites you to attach yourself to his party. You tell him you cannot possibly do that, because you do not approve the general course of his party, you discredit its professions and distrust its tendencies. From the constitution of that party and the whole course of its history your mind is made up against it. When you inform your democratic friend that it does not follow from your criticisms of the republican party that you are prepared to embrace the democratic, you may find him so thorough-going in his partisanship as to harbor a doubt of your sincerity. Because you are not a thick-and-thin republican partisan he thinks you ought to be a thick-and-thin democratic one; you protest against the despotism of party, and he wants you to accept of the despotism of his party; to merely partisan objects you profess yourself indifferent, and he takes it as offense that you do not join him in striving for the merely partisan objects which he would like to promote. All this, to some extent, is now in the air about us.

There are many independent republicans—that is to say, republicans who dislike the machine, oppose bossism, object to the spoils system and protest against the domination of the party by a class who pursue the game of politics as a professional employment and for personal ends. These men are very far from being democrats. They could not possibly be democrats, because they know from the very composition and constitution of the democratic party that that party, if in power, would fall into, multiply and aggravate all the abuses in method and management which are condemned in republican "stalwartism." Independent republicans, therefore, will not walk into the democratic fold. Three weeks hence our general election will be held. A poor way to evince an independence of partisanship would be to resolve to promote a democratic partisan triumph. Contrary to the idea of partisan organs of the democratic stamp, independent republicanism does not require those who profess it to vote the democratic ticket. The quality or quantity of "independence" required to make a democratic partisan needs no dissertation. We do not doubt that republicans very generally will support at the coming election the republican candidates particularly for the state offices and the legislature. There is no good reason why they should not do so unitedly. As a whole throughout the state there is less machine work in the republican nominations than has been witnessed for years. No unscrupulous politician has succeeded in setting up the legislative nominations so as to enable him to count on an election to the senate. The republican state ticket is composed of names worthy of public confidence, and its success, with the election of the republican candidate for representative in congress, would give a good administration and at the same time contribute to the support of the republican party as a national organization. It is those independent republicans, who are conscious of the errors and shortcomings of the republican party and criticise them with severity, who, nevertheless, as a class, entertain most distrust of the democratic party for its inability to deal with questions which relate to the administration of the public service, and who therefore are most unlikely to become democrats or to act with that party when it seeks, as now, a purely partisan triumph. When independent or non-partisan nominations have been made here a large class of democrats, of the intensely partisan kind have invariably gone over to the service of the republican machine managers and given them the victory. There is an affinity, operating as unerringly as a touch of nature, between republican stalwartism and democratic partisan management. They are the two halves of the same thing. They resemble in their workings a demonstration of one of the first theorems in elementary geometry, which shows that two straight lines which have two points in common coincide through their whole extent, and how far soever produced, form one and the same line. Democratic success promises no relief from, or abatement of, any abuse in party government or public administration of which republicans who criticise their own party complain. For the democratic party, should it ever become successful as a national organization, would put into practice as the natural and regular thing all the objectionable methods of machine management, boss government and partisan rewards, which, though too often introduced by republican bosses, have never been accepted by the party at large, nor permitted to pass without rebuke. The whole system is, in fact, of democratic origin, and no one doubts that if that party should ever again obtain the ascendant it would not only re-establish it, but adhere to it as a settled rule of action. In this state the democratic managers are now begging for republican votes. On this they rest their hope of winning the election. They particularly want independent republicans to come to their aid. But as yet they furnish no sufficient reason to show why independent republicans should contribute to a result which is sought as a democratic partisan triumph. It is safe to say that they are not likely, during the next three weeks, to furnish any such reason.

Several democratic organs are loaded with complaints that Hipple-Mitchell has not been fairly treated in the nominations made for the legislature throughout the state. To meet this difficulty suppose they themselves were to give him a direct support, and require their candidates for the legislature to pledge themselves to vote for him for the senate. This, from their point of view, would seem to be the more necessary, since he is not going to get the republicans to elect him.

Gen. Barnard of the engineer corps, and an officer of distinguished war record, died at Detroit, Michigan, yesterday.

MR. SCHURZ'S VIEWS.

The North American Review for May contains an article by Carl Schurz on "Party Schisms and Future Problems," which is attracting wide attention. It is intended to be, so says the author, an analytical study of the political situation and its probabilities rather than a positive prediction and platform. The quarrels between factions within parties, says Mr. Schurz, are much fiercer than the contests between the parties themselves. New York, where the hostility between "half-breeds" and "stalwarts" is more virulent than the hostility of either toward the "common enemy," and where the fight between Tammany and anti-Tammany is carried on with all the bitterness of a family war; Pennsylvania, where the Grant or Cameron republicans are fiercely opposed to a great body of citizens,—and several of the southern states, where the democratic party is distracted by bitter struggles between bourbons and independents furnish instances; and faction fights seem to spread and grow in extent and bitterness. The spirit of faction owes its growth in great part to the gradual disappearance of the issues which originally divided the parties, or which subsequently sprung up and became important enough to keep the lines of division distinct. The questions immediately connected with the civil war are virtually disposed of. Nobody believes that the union is still in danger. Slavery is dead. Attempts to deprive the colored people of their rights have given way to constantly growing efforts of political parties and their divisions to conciliate and win over the colored voter. The disturbances of the public peace in the south, which for several years had a disquieting effect upon the northern mind, are fast yielding to an eager desire for good order and for the friendly co-operation of northern capital and enterprise in developing southern prosperity. The "solid south" as a dangerous political power is rapidly losing, or has already lost its terrors in consequence of the evident tendency of political forces in that section to divide, and thus be solid no more. The southern question is practically eliminated from our party contests. There is no more political capital in it, and it is not likely to be revived. Thus the most exciting issue between the two parties is gone.

The old historic question of a centralizing tendency on one side and a decentralizing tendency on the other side, or of a strong central power and of local self-government, which the democratic party, as the advocate of decentralization, was in the habit of advancing as the vital issue of American politics, has also changed so much in some of its most important aspects that the democratic party itself would hesitate now to put it forward in the old form. The relation of the central government to the states and the people has been seriously modified during the last fifty years, not only in consequence of the civil war and the constitutional amendments, or of a change in constitutional doctrine, but through the introduction of new means of communication which have annihilated the distances formerly separating the different parts of the country and their people, and through the creation of a community of enterprise and interest between them which formerly did not exist. The inhabitant of Missouri or even of California, when stepping on board of a railroad train, feels himself nearer to the central government than the inhabitant of central Virginia or of New Jersey did fifty years ago. And the farmer in Nebraska and the stock raiser in Montana have now as lively an interest in the regulation of railway freight rates through Ohio and New York as in the first quarter of this century the farmer in Pennsylvania had in the condition of the wagon road from his farm to the nearest market town. And under this change of circumstances we find democrats in congress who, perhaps, would still speak with traditional reverence of the resolutions of 1798, and would resent any slighting remark about the old theory of states-rights as something akin to high treason, propose unhesitatingly the regulation of freight rates through the different states by federal statute. Moreover, the people of the south, democrats in political profession, have, in consequence of the losses suffered by them in the civil war, undergone a very serious change of notions as to the power of the federal government with regard to internal improvements and the like. They are not only willing, but eager, to yield many of their old political doctrines for their local advantage. On the other hand, the small New England states, republican in politics, would be just as strenuous in regard to their rights of local self government, as well as respecting their rights as states in the union, as any democratic state in the south ever was. It is their evident interest to be so, for if the equality of the states, as political factors in the government, were ever called into question, the smallest states would be the most likely to suffer. Thus, while the democrats of the south may still pretend to be most uncompromising as to the doctrine of states rights and as opponents of centralization in point of theory and profession, most of them are ready to permit an enlargement of the powers of the federal government as it may be necessary to benefit them locally. And, while the northern republicans are insisting upon the national character of the federal government and its competency to deal with questions arising from the results of the war, they would sternly oppose any interference with the rights of local self-government.

Neither can the tariff question be looked upon as a strict party question. The democrats at the opening of the last presidential campaign made a demonstration in favor of revenue reform in the direction of free trade. But when they saw that an appeal made on the republican side in behalf of protection produced a strong effect, they ran away from their platform. The truth is, that, under existing circumstances, the tariff question, however great its importance, does not appeal with sufficient force to the popular mind to take the first place. The resources of the country are so abundant, their development so rapid, and the increase of the national wealth so great under all sorts of customs policy, that the masses of the people have not taken sufficient interest in the latter to subordinate all other questions to it.

The financial question is practically settled. But it may now be fairly said that the two parties represent opposite policies more with regard to the national bank question than anything else, and, in fact, strange as it may seem, the struggles of the past have left this as the most, if not the only, clearly defined line of division between them, although there are many individual democrats opposed to the abolition of the national banking system. In saying this, it is not meant to assert that there is no other difference of feeling, or sentiment, or political desire, or sympathy more or less vaguely distinguishing them, but that there are scarcely any other distinctly tangible, specific subjects of contention which, by immediate action, one party strives to accomplish and the other to defeat.

Mr. Schurz considers the matters which have weakened the old parties and which may occasion the organization of a new one or new ones, and this part of his article we will pass over to another time. Passing on, he says that the present condition of politics seems to present unusual opportunities. Neither of the parties commands a majority of the popular vote. Both are minority parties of equal organized strength. Both depend for success upon the aid of elements which belong to neither. And both are well aware of this. To turn such a situation to advantage for the public good, will be, in a great measure, the task of the "independent voter," who has of late made himself felt and grown to the estate of a distinct political force. He has already been mentioned in connection with the republican party. In using this term we mean to designate those patriotic and public-spirited citizens to whom it is of greater interest that the affairs of the government be well conducted than what set of men conducts them. This element has its greatest strength among those who do not make politics a business, but deem it their duty to take an active part in political movements whenever an important object is to be attained for the public good. They are not enlisted in any of the factions struggling for power and patronage, but are inclined to co-operate with all in turn as the public interest may require it. They are without permanent organization, but occasionally find themselves together for a common effort, as the duties of the day may call them out. Their influence has so far been practically more of a negative than a positive character. While they have not been able to accomplish the nomination and election for high place of the men they would select, they have rendered effective aid in preventing the elevation to power of men they considered especially objectionable. They have further succeeded in urging upon the attention of the people, and thereby of politicians and parties, measures of reform they considered especially important. In the north they have been mostly inclined to associate with the republican party, not from mere habit and tradition, but because they found in the ranks of that party those elements of intelligence and public spirit with which their endeavors are most likely to find congenial lodgment. But they are always willing to consider whether a defeat or a victory of that or any other party would best serve the public objects they have in view, and to act accordingly. They are, as "impracticable theorists," very unpopular with the "practical politicians," but usually much in demand when the day of voting comes. The reason is, that while they cannot control the organizations, they can occasionally decide an election, and as the power of party allegiance and discipline grows generally weaker, their influence upon public opinion grows stronger.

A striking proof of the power of that influence is furnished by the remarkable progress of the movement for civil service reform—a movement which originated inside of the republican party. The movement grows steadily in popular favor. Politicians of both parties hate it, because it threatens to spoil them out of business, to throw most of their arts out of the market and to deprive them of their plunder. Many of them, who still hate it at heart as much as they ever did, now profess to be themselves in favor of some sort of reform, which they pretend to be able to accomplish with their own methods. Much of this profession is that kind of hypocrisy which is called a tribute paid by vice to virtue. It is certainly not genuine virtue, but the mere fact that vice recognizes the necessity of paying a tribute to virtue is a valuable sign of progress. The time is not far behind us when such a tribute was considered entirely superfluous,—the worst abuses of the spoils system being paraded before the eyes of the people without concealment. Fifteen years ago, a sweeping "new deal" of the offices at the incoming of a new administration would have been considered a very natural thing. The removal of any number of worthy public servants during an administration, and the distribution of their places among a new set exclusively for political ends, could be undertaken without disguise of motive or purpose, almost without criticism, as part of the established system. Not many years ago, all the employes of the government could be taxed for campaign expenses without circumlocution, and the removal of those who failed to respond could be undertaken almost without calling forth a remonstrance. Now, although the "practical politicians" have not undergone a sincere change of heart, any intention of making "new deals" is loudly disclaimed on both sides, for it is known that any serious attempt in that line would call forth a storm of indignant protest. Removals and appointments for purely political reasons undoubtedly still happen, but they have become comparatively rare, and are as carefully as possible disguised.

The above is but an outline of a long article of thirty pages—excepting the omission mentioned above—which well deserves the interest it has created.

For all the Chinese arriving or to arrive there will be work for two years on the railroads. It is the demand for railroad laborers, not the prospect of suspension of the right of immigration, that brings them over at this time in so large numbers. Yet it is gratifying to know that the immigration can continue only a few weeks longer. That is, it is gratifying to everybody except the politicians who are making out of the question all they hoped to gain. In fact were the democratic convention which was held last month to be held now there would be long faces and no jubilation.

A great deal is being said about a certain terrible organization in this state which, it is alleged, is founded on proscription of men for their religious convictions. It is said that Mr. Moody is a member. We are perfectly certain that this should be set down as false. It may, however, be pertinent to inquire whether this organization is not so intolerant and otherwise objectionable that the chairman of the democratic state central committee ought to decline to be a member of it.

The chief hope of Guiteau and his counsel for delay and a new trial is in the fact that Mrs. Dunmire, Guiteau's former wife, testified in the case. It cannot be claimed that the testimony influenced the case as to its final result; and as a matter of fact it was in the assassin's favor. But it is claimed that as having been Guiteau's wife she had no right to testify in relation to his mental status, and on this wretched technicality a new trial is demanded. Bosh!

In many parts of California the wheat crop has been hopelessly blighted by drouth and dessicating winds. In some of the best wheat counties there will be hardly any crop. Many farmers are cutting their fields for hay, in order to make all they can out of their misfortune. The surplus in California this year will be far below that of last. Large numbers are discouraged.

Mr. Parnell is again at outs with the government, and appears to be losing authority with the Irish people.

Queen Victoria is severely criticised for holding receptions on the days of Burke's and Cavendish's funerals.

NOW READY.

SURVEYORS HAVING JUST COMPLETED THE subdivision of the Tolman tract into lots and blocks, we are now prepared to sell upon the most reasonable terms and lowest prices Town Lots.

This tract is near the property owned by the O. R. & N. Company, in the southern part of East Portland, and is immediately adjacent to the bridge across Ross Island which is contemplated by the company. Lots are convenient to the business portion of the city, high and healthy. The land is rich and magnificently picturesque. Everybody can afford to invest or speculate when town lots of such immediate value can be purchased for $125 and $150 each, in installments of $12 50 per month, without interest. Make an appointment with us to view the lots as they are. We will convey customers to and from the grounds free of charge at any hour of the day.

MONDAY MORNING, MAY 15, 1882.

CITY.

PROBABLY DROWNED.—Thursday night last, Chas. Noonan, who works for Patrick Kiernan, keeper of Lone Fir cemetery, left the residence of his brother-in-law, C. R. DeBurg, in East Portland, with a lantern, and has since not been seen. It is believed that he was drowned. He was traced to several saloons, and the last heard of him was when he left Fay's saloon, near the Stark street ferry landing, walking east on L street. About this time shouts as from some one in distress were heard, but no attention was paid to them. Yesterday afternoon search was begun in the slough west of Logus' packing house, on L street, and there was found Noonan's hat and the lantern which he took from DeBurg's house. Though grappling was continued till dark, and a blast of giant powder fired, nothing could be discovered of the body. Noonan is a widower, about 35 years old, and has a daughter living at Dallas, Polk county. Those who saw him as late as half past nine Thursday night, say he was not perceptibly under the influence of liquor. The roadway immediately over the spot where the hat and lantern were found, is not protected by railing. Search will be continued to-day.

READY FOR ADOPTION.—There are now at the Home ready for adoption, three little boys, of the ages of five, seven and nine years respectively. The little boy of five is an unusually interesting child. The two older ones are brothers who have recently lost their mother, and could they be adopted by the same person, so as not to be separated, it would be desirable. It is to be hoped that this may meet the eyes of some charitably disposed person who can give a good home and useful employment to these boys. Full particulars can be had by calling on Mrs. Wood, the matron at the Home.

NEW STABLES.—The Oregon Transfer Company have commenced construction of a stable 50 by 100 feet, on the southwest corner of Front and G streets, immediately below the Clarendon. It will be used for the street railway for stock and cars. Rumor has it that the company will this summer build on adjoining ground, additional stables, into which will be moved the horses and vehicles now at the corner of Second and Stark. The triangular building just finished in front of the O. R. & N. offices, it is understood, will be used as the business office.

CHILD FOUND.—Last night, a tiny, bright eyed fellow, less than five years old, who had evidently wandered from home, was picked up by a policeman corner Second and B, and taken to headquarters. He gave his name as Eddie Dushow, said that he lived on a ranche and that his father was building a house for somebody. He enjoyed the novelty of his temporary home and soon went to sleep. Strangely enough, his parents made no inquiries for him. Won't somebody claim him?

DARING ESCAPE.—Saturday night United States Marshal Hopkins with two special deputies started from Walla Walla with four prisoners, en route to the penitentiary. By some means as yet unknown Geo. Smith and Jack Greenwood, alias "Dixie," a crook well known here, freed themselves from their shackles. While the train was in motion between Umatilla and Willows they jumped off and escaped in the darkness.

OREGON ILLUSTRATED.—Ernest Ingersoll, correspondent, and Allen C. Redwood, artist of Harper's Magazine, who are now engaged in writing up and illustrating the redwood regions of Russian river, California, will visit Oregon as soon as their task is completed and perform the same service for the upper Columbia basin and other points of interest in this state and Washington.

MORE WITNESSES.—E. Hall, postmaster at Canyon City, Oregon, and Frank McBean, C. S. Pierce, E. Schutz, Wm. Corne and J. M. Fish, who are connected with the stage route in that locality, arrived by yesterday's boat and leave by the Oregon to-night en route to Washington as witnesses in the Star route prosecutions.

THE BRADLEY CASE.—The case of the state vs Carrie Bradley, charged with murder, will be called Wednesday morning in the state circuit court. It is understood that both prosecution and defense are ready for trial, and that the case will proceed without attempt at delay. Bradley will be tried alone.

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT.—Judge Deady will deliver an opinion in this court this morning upon the demurrer to the information in the case of the United States vs. W. J. Stephens, for introducing and attempting to introduce spirituous liquors into Alaska.

BROKEN BOOM.—Yesterday morning a large boom of logs at Pennoyer's saw mill broke loose and drifted down the river. Fortunately there were several disengaged steamboats along shore, through whose efforts the logs were recovered with slight loss.

ANOTHER SPEAKER.—Hon. W. D. Hare, of Washington county, has consented to canvass a portion of the state on behalf of the republican state ticket. The State Central Committee will announce places and time for his addresses at an early date.

WORSE.—The condition of A. Quigley, who was injured by falling at the Clarendon Hotel, Saturday morning, was considerably worse at a late hour last night, and fears are entertained that he will not recover. He is attended by his son.

LINN COUNTY NOMINATIONS.—In the telegraphic report of the Linn county democratic nominations, the following nominees for office were omitted: Surveyor, H. J. C. Averill; assessor, J. N. Dozier; coroner, Dr. J. A. Davis.

NEW PAPER.—Mr. M. C. Harris, of Walla Walla, arrived by the last steamer, which also brought the plant for a daily evening paper to be started by him in that city about June 1st. It will be called the Daily Events.

PATENTS.—The department has recently granted patents to David W. Smith, of Port Townsend, W. T., for a safe, and to J. H. Burrows, of Boise City, Idaho, for nut lock.

CLOSING AT THREE O'CLOCK.

To THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Permit me to supplement what THE OREGONIAN said last Saturday regarding the closing of stores at three o'clock, with the following from a prominent San Francisco journal:

In all cases where it is possible, wholesale houses would do well to close at 3 P. M. on Saturday. A movement in that direction has already been started, and we are glad of it. All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy, and a Saturday partial holiday benefits the merchant and his clerk both. We have little doubt that the movement started so unostentatiously will after a while become general, and that all the leading houses will be closed at that hour. There is really no business done on Saturday after 3 P. M. nor for the matter of that, after 12 M. It is not a case where a firm can be benefited by sales of goods, for little or none are sold after that hour. Of course to be lasting, the movement must be general and we hope to see it so. The time thus obtained on Saturday can be devoted by the hard-worked clerk or proprietor to necessary recreation or rest. We are altogether too much of a rushing community, so much so that many of us worry ourselves out of existence and live but half our lives in our hurry and neglect of our physical and mental well-being. Movements of this kind have long since been started with success in many large commercial cities, generally by particular lines of trade, such as the grocery or hardware trade, and gradually have been followed by all. They, however, have assumed the form of the half-holiday Saturday where the wholesale houses close at 12 M., and indeed that is the usual outcome of movements like the present. The banks close at 12 M. on Saturday, and after some experience of closing at 3 P. M. most will feel that they might as well have closed at noonday.

CLERK.

HOMICIDE IN DOUGLAS COUNTY.

L. C. Hill Kills His Brother-in-Law, Caleb Young—An Apparent Case of Self Defense.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

MYRTLE CREEK, May 11.—Friday morning L. C. Hill shot and instantly killed his brother-in-law, Caleb Young, in front of the postoffice. There had been a family feud existing between them for some time. It appears that Hill, in a fit of anger, punished his step-daughter for refusing to obey him. This so incensed her relatives that they sent him a written notice to settle up and leave the country in twelve hours. Hill, not wishing to be forced to leave, remained in town until the next morning. While standing on the porch in front of the postoffice Young drove up and jumped off his wagon and approached Hill in a threatening manner, using insulting language, when Hill shot with an X. L. revolver, forty calibre, instantly killing him. Hill was immediately arrested and taken to Roseburg, where the grand jury is investigating the case.

NATIONAL WASHING POWDERS.

The above washing powders are the best labor-saving powders yet discovered. They cleanse the clothes thoroughly, doing them no damage whatever from its chemical properties, and does not injure the hands. This cannot be said of other washing powders which are offered to the public by unscrupulous sellers. The many ladies of Portland and elsewhere who have used it will testify as to its excellent qualities. It makes washing easy, cleansing the clothes without washing or boiling, and saves wear, time and labor. For sale at all the grocery stores. Manufactured by Mrs. Fellows and Mrs. Bell, Fifth street, near Jefferson.

AT INVENTORY PRICES.

There still remains of the Van Beurden stock a very fine assortment of diamonds, watches and jewelry, which will after this date be closed out at net importer's cost. Such an opportunity for first-class goods was never before presented in Portland, and it should not be neglected. A saving of 25 to 50 per cent. is not an every day occurrence, and this is no sham sale.

Fresh home-made candies every day. P. O. Candy Store.

A FULL SET OF TEETH FOR $10

SATURDAY'S LOCAL NEWS.

Condensed from The Sunday Oregonian.

Real estate transactions for the week were $11[illegible].

The Pioneer and Historical society, at a meeting at A[illegible], has declared it expedient to erect the monument to Dr. Whitman on the spot where he was massacred, six miles west of Walla Walla.

In the case of Harrason against Thompson, Smith & Co., the jury returned a verdict Saturday in favor of Harrason for $1200. He sued for $4000.

Saturday a plat of the Tolman tract was filed in the county clerk's office. It extends from the R. J. Martin tract, south of East Portland, along the road to Oregon City.

The American ship Importer, which arrived here Saturday from Hongkong, brought 857 Chinese and a cargo of rice, teas and matting. The coolies [illegible] here, and most of them will go to work on railroad grades next week.

Mrs. L. A. Potts, the lace goods dealer on First street, near Salmon, has fallen heir to $40,000, bequeathed by a lady in New York, who always regarded her with a mother's affection. Mrs. Potts' husband was engineer of the Gold Dust, and suffered death by scalding through an explosion about twelve months ago.

W. G. Rennels has resigned his position as postmaster in East Portland, and the name of Mrs. W. F. Cowgill has been sent for confirmation to Washington as his successor. The new candidate is the widow of Capt. W. F. Cowgill, formerly treasurer of East Portland.

Saturday afternoon G. May, the butcher, met Dr. Folkman, editor of the Staats Zeitung, on the corner of West Park and B streets and gave him a severe beating. The assault was prompted by an article in the last number of Folkman's paper which reflected on Dr. M. May, the Jewish rabbi, brother of the assaulter. May walked to Justice [illegible] office, pleaded guilty and was fined $5.

Mr. John Muir, the very efficient superintendent of traffic of the O. R. & N. and Northern Pacific companies, has been appointed superintendent of traffic of the Pacific Coast S. S. Co.'s route north of San Francisco, except routes between ports in California. The new appointment includes the Portland, Puget Sound and Alaska lines, and makes the mileage represented by Mr. Muir over 1000 miles.

About 3 o'clock Saturday morning A. Quigley, a middle-aged, respectable farmer, living on Lewis river, left his room on the third floor of the Clarendon hotel in a fit of somnambulism and walked down one flight. He then walked to the end of the hall to the north wall of the building, through a large window into an alley way twenty feet below. As he went through the window he received a cut over the eye and one on the scalp. In the fall very severe internal injuries were sustained, which may prove fatal.

The Sloss furnace at Birmingham, Ala., upon which over $200,000 has been expended, was fired up Monday morning, April 10. Work was begun on this furnace last June, and it is one of the largest ever erected in the southern states.

An orange tree near Orlanda, Fla., has produced an average of 4000 oranges per annum for a number of years. Such a tree would pay an annual interest on $400 at ten per cent., after deducting enough to cover the care and cost of fertilizing.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Much has been said in the city papers as to the movement now being agitated by what the said papers misname the independent party and the course they intend to or should take.

In answer we desire to say that the purpose of the MULTNOMAH CITIZENS' CLUB organization is solely to create a sentiment in opposition to all party cliques and rings.

The movement is intended to be a practical and permanent one, and we ask the co-operation of all those in favor of an honest management of political affairs in this county.

Such persons are cordially invited to join this club and assist in taking the action that must and will soon be taken against the manipulation of party politics.

There will be an open meeting of the club at Beck's Hall on Tuesday evening, the 16th instant, at eight o'clock, to which all in sympathy with this movement are invited. Speakers are expected to be present.

PROCLAMATION.

To the people of the State of Oregon: Whereas I, S. Friedman, of the county of Multnomah, city of Portland, have opened a very choice lot of goods and have offered them to the public at prices that no one can compete with me, and yet some of the people, I am ashamed to say, cannot read, or they would have come and availed themselves of the opportunity of purchasing some of the articles I offer so low, and by their not attending to it and the improving of the street and fixing the street railway, also the building of Ladd's brick opposite my store, on corner of Salmon and First, has kept the travel away from my place of business so that I have more goods on hand than I ought to have by this time and less money, and it is the last named article I have the most use for. I therefore demand of each and every one of you that has coin to come to my place of business and convince yourselves, from the low prices of my goods, that I mean business. My stock comprises a general variety, and whoever wants goods will not go away on account of prices, and should you fail to respond to this call you will pay a penalty of 25 per cent. by purchasing elsewhere than of me. Respectfully yours,

S. FRIEDMAN,
Cor. First and Salmon streets, Portland, Ogn.

Gentle Women

Who want glossy, luxuriant and wavy tresses of abundant, beautiful Hair must use LYON'S KATHAIRON. This elegant, cheap article always makes the Hair grow freely and fast, keeps it from falling out, arrests and cures grayness, removes dandruff and itching, makes the Hair strong, giving it a curling tendency and keeping it in any desired position. Beautiful, healthy Hair is the sure result of using Kathairon.

NEWS OF SATURDAY.

[From the Sunday Oregonian.]

A Mining Stock Firm's Failure.

NEW YORK, May 13.—The Tribune has the following on the failure of Arnold & Co., well known members of the New York mining stock exchange, yesterday. The firm, which consisted of St. Tracy Arnold and W. D. Vernon, had succeeded in cornering the stock of the Moose mining company. It called borrowed stock on Thursday, and all stock was bought on buyers' option. It sent a notice to the chairman of the mining stock exchange that all unfilled contracts should be bought in order to fulfil the stock, and protested against purchases of the chairman, which were begun immediately after delivery hour. In consequence of a refusal of debtors to deliver stock according to their contracts, the firm was obliged to suspend yesterday. The announcement caused great excitement in the board, because the firm has been for several years one of the most prominent in mining matters.

At a meeting of prominent and popular members of the mining stock exchange, he is said to have paid out large commissions and to have been generous in all his dealings. On both sides charges of conspiracy have been made, and Chisholm is reported to have declared on the floor of the exchange that he would never pay one cent of the difference which according to usage, he owed. A large amount of stock was closed on account of the failed firm yesterday.

Swindling Bank Official.

BUFFALO, May 12.—In an examination to-day into the affairs of the defunct national bank, Young, bank examiner, makes a statement which has caused a sensation. It showed that city officers and prominent persons and firms, eleven in number, owed the concern in the aggregate nearly $750,000, one commission firm owing $410,000. The bank examiner charges President Lee with allowing speculators to use him for that purpose, and with having systematically swindling the bank, transferring large amounts of its assets when a collapse became inevitable.

Anti-Assassination Meeting.

NEW YORK, May 12.—An anti-assassination meeting was held at Cooper Union to-night. The hall was crowded. Mayor Grace presided, and spoke of trouble to be feared from the O'Donovan Rossa faction, and police were stationed through the hall. Rossa was present. Mrs. Parnell appeared on the platform. Richard O'Gorman spoke in favor of Parnell's policy. Resolutions of abhorrence of the assassination, objection to Gladstone's present policy, and counseling every legitimate means to frustrate it were adopted.

Damaged by Rains.

CHICAGO, May 13.—Little Rock special: Recent reports show rains have done greater damage than expected. In southeastern Arkansas the destruction is very great. Many acres of land are submerged and crops destroyed. Col. Vaughn lost crops worth $30,000. Total loss in the vicinity of Conway county is estimated at $100,000.

A General Storm.

PARSONS, Kansas, May 12.—Information is received that the storm which so nearly destroyed the coal mining camp of McAllister on the 10th inst., also struck Mill creek, destroying every house in the place except one. One man was killed and two children fatally hurt.

Mistaken in the Man.

FORT GARLAND, May 12.—Dick Rogers, a Colorado cowboy, rode into Fort Garland and ordered a soldier to light his cigar for him. The response was a bullet through his head. Jim Catson, a stage robber who accompanied Rogers tried to retreat, but was given a desperate wound.

Storms on the Atlantic Coast.

NEW YORK, May 13.—A heavy gale prevailed along the north Atlantic coast to-day. The bluff at Long Branch was badly damaged. The sound was storm swept and all harbors filled with vessels seeking refuge.

Attempted Assassination.

DALLAS, Tex., May 12.—An attempt was made to murder Gov. Orton, of the Chickasaw nation, a few nights ago, by shooting into his house. One of the would-be assassins named Stevens, was followed by Indian police into the Washita river region and killed.

Blown up by Dynamite.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 12.—The saloon of Hoffner & Co., at Palestine, was blown up by dynamite during Thursday night. The building was ruined and stock destroyed. One man mortally injured and a son of the proprietor wounded.

Railroad Notes.

ATCHISON, May 12.—Only about eighteen miles of the Omaha extension of the Missouri Pacific railroad remain to be completed. Track laying is progressing rapidly on the whole line, and it will be finished by June 1st.

Crop Reports from Kansas.

Reports of crops from all points in northern Kansas continue exceedingly favorable. The prospects for grain were never so encouraging, and the fruit crop also promises to be enormous.

Reward Offered for Mayor Navin.

ADRIAN, Mich., May 13.—Sheriff Bidwell and Prosecuting Attorney Watts have offered $2000 and the city $1000 reward for the capture of T. J. Navin, the absconding mayor.

An Anti-Cameron Man.

PHILADELPHIA, May 13.—Charles S. Wolf, of Penn., telegraphs a friend he never sought or bargained for, or consented to accept a place on the Cameron state ticket.

Financial Note.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Specie exports to-day $200,000 gold, $350,000 silver. Bank statements will probably not be very favorable.

Memorial Exercises.

BOSTON, May 12.—The Massachusetts historical society held special exercises to-night in memory of Longfellow and Emerson.

Chicago Wheat Market.

CHICAGO, May 13.—Wheat—Weak and lower; $1 24 cash; $1 23½ June.

WASHINGTON CITY.

The May Crop Report.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—The May report of the condition of winter wheat by the statistician of the department of agriculture makes the average condition for April 102, higher than reported for many years. In April last year it was 86. Only states of the north Atlantic coast and those at the head of the Ohio valley, Texas and those of the Pacific coast fall so much 100, while the extraordinary vigor of the crop in other sections fully compensates for those local deficiencies, which amount to 7 per cent. in Connecticut, 19 in New York, 6 in Pennsylvania 34 in Texas, 5 in West Virginia, 2 in Kentucky, 9 in Ohio, 5 in California. Chinch bugs and army worms are doing much injury in Texas. There is frequent reference to brown rust on leaves in several states south, but the stem is not generally attacked and injury is nominal. It is now too late for much loss from this source.

Rye is also in good condition, the general average being 96. It was 100 on the 1st of April, and 97 in April, 1881. Three-fourths of the winter barley is in California and New York, in which the average condition is respectively 93 and 70. The difference in cotton the 1st of May is approximated at half a million acres. Planting is still in progress. The proportion of spring plowing done up to May 1st in comparison with an average year is greater this season. Upon the Atlantic coast south of New England, in the Ohio valley and Missouri valley it is less than usual. In the eastern and northwestern states, in the lower Mississippi and on the Pacific coast the condition of mowing fields is represented by 99, a slight deficiency being reported in the Ohio valley and south Atlantic states.

Senator Mitchell's Views.

WASHINGTON, May 13.—Senator Mitchell has expressed his views concerning the Harrisburg ticket in the following dispatch:

WASHINGTON, May 13.

Maj. G. W. Merrick, Wellesboro, Pa.: Right is mighty and ever triumphant. I have done all for peace, but war is inevitable; not upon men, but upon the candidates who have lashed themselves to an unrighteous cause, to curry favor of the bossing machinism, and use of the spoils system to bolster up stalwart usurpation. I am against this everywhere and forever. It is a plain patriotic duty to put down this stalwart oligarchy at any cost, that true republicanism and the republic itself may live and thrive. Organize, work and fight to the end.

JOHN J. MITCHELL.

Census of California.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—A census bulletin issued to-day gives the following statistics of population of California in 1880: Native, 517,620; foreign born, 291,874. The total comprises 135,456 Chinese, 62,926 Irish, 42,532 German, 24,657 English, 1377 Canadians, 2860 French, 8648 Mexicans, 7537 Italians, 6467 Scotch, 5908 Swiss, and 13,659 of all other foreign nationalities. The total white population born in California is given as 306,550, and colored 10,447. Another census bulletin just issued gives the total number of farms of California as 36,934, of which 20,214 are from 100 to 500 acres each, 8967 from 50 to 100 acres; 3475 from 20 to 50 acres, 3108 from 500 to 1000 acres, and 2531 of 1000 acres each or over.

Letter from Mrs. Garfield.

Senator Sherman has received the following:

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 8.

My Dear Sir: I have received your note with inclosed notice of pension granted me for my husband's sake. I am truly mindful of the generous kindness shown the family of Gen. Garfield, not only by friends but by the national legislature, and may I ask that you make acknowledgement of this in whatever way and by whatever expression my gratitude seems to you most appropriate. With sentiments of high regard, very truly yours.

LUCRETIA R. GARFIELD.

Officers Appointed.

The following grand officers of the I. O. O. F. were appointed last night by the grand master. A. F. Hitchcock, grand chaplain; L. A. Sitton, grand marshal; F. A. Hornblower, grand conductor; A. H. Chandler, G. G., E. Dunker, grand herald.

A Visit to Yorktown.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Marchioness E. Dechambrun, with her four children, were escorted to-day to Yorktown by Col. Peyton, and shown the spot where Cornwallis signed the articles of capitulation.

WEST INDIES.

Removed for His Leniency.

HAVANA, May 13.—The treasurer of the Havana custom house, Lopez Helgrin, has been removed because duties amounting to $300,000 owed by various firms have not been collected.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

The Body of Strange Recovered.

ALBANY, May 13.—The body of Alonzo Strange, the young man drowned with Adair on Tuesday last, was found to-day. It was partly imbedded in sand and was drawn to the surface with difficulty by hooks which caught his clothing. His funeral will take place to-morrow, conducted by firemen of this city. General sorrow is felt by citizens for the fate of these estimable young men.

SHIPHERD'S PERUVIAN COMPANY.

Dr. Franklin Stewart, of Philadelphia, Explains the Foundation It Rests Upon.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, May 13.—The World has the following from Philadelphia: One correspondent visited Dr. Franklin Stewart and asked for information concerning his reputed connection with Shipherd and the Peruvian company. Stewart manifested surprise at first, and protested he could say nothing, although he did not deny that he knew all about the objects and acts of Shipherd. He was finally led to say, although there exists in the public mind much confusion as to the Cochet claim and Peruvian company, the story is really a simple one. He said, however, that if he should tell all he knew, and express his real opinion of Shipherd, he would very likely lose all of his large investment in the Peruvian company, and probably subject himself to prosecution for libel by Shipherd. Gradually, however, he became more communicative and explained that the original Cochet claim was divided into twenty parts by Peter Hevner, a ... rare and competitor of Henry Meiggs, in Peru. Twelve-twentieths of the claim were sold or transferred to James Montgomery, now vice president of the cattle car company, at 5 Cortland street, New York. One-twentieth was sold to a Philadelphian named Carey, who recently died. Hevner retained a portion, and Dr. Stewart took what was equal to one-twentieth of the whole. When Shipherd appeared on the scene with his scheme for a Peruvian company, Stewart was induced to part with his interest to him on the understanding that he (Shipherd) was to purchase all the remainder of the claim. In fact, the doctor understood that Shipherd had already contracted to purchase the share held by Montgomery, Hevner and others, and that he was to organize what is known as the "Peruvian company." All those parties refused to sell to Shipherd, but that person went promptly on with the organization of the company, on a capitalization of $250,000,000. The only basis for the company therefore was the one-fifteenth part transferred to Shipherd by Stewart, on payment of one dollar. "Shipherd was ready enough to pay me that dollar to make the sale legal," said Dr. Stewart, "but that is all the money I have ever received from him. All the cash transaction between us had been this transfer of money from my pockets to his, as I employed him as my lawyer to perfect my title to my fifteenth of the Cochet claim. I agreed to pay him $5000 for that service and I have paid him all but $1000."

"Then the only basis the Peruvian Co. rests on is your one-fifteenth part of the original claim?" asked the reporter.

"Yes, sir; that is all the bottom it has. Montgomery refused to sell his twelve-twentieths, and Hevner, Blair and others hold on to their interests. Shipherd elected himself president of the company, and a follower named Lyman, I think, secretary, and he was never given any notice of the election of officers or a meeting of the company, such as it is. So far as I know, Shipherd is the only stockholder, and the stock is that one-fifteenth which I weakly let him have, and for which he has never paid a cent beyond one dollar. All that I have to show is a piece of paper from Shipherd which is utterly worthless. It can't be negotiated in any market in the world; it can't be used as writing paper; in fact it is useless. If I had that stock I could sell it at an hour's notice. Only two weeks ago I was offered $25,000 for it."

The doctor declined stating who made the offer.

"I wish I might talk more at length on the subject," finally continued the doctor; "but if Shipherd learns that I have told the real history of his so-called company he will make me smart for it. You see I'm in his clutches just at present, because I was foolish enough to transfer my stock to him, and if he chooses he can deprive me of all the value it may possess. I can't talk with freedom, as Hevner and Montgomery can. I only wish I could. That man Shipherd is the smartest man I ever came across. He has been making capital for months out of the Peruvian company, although the whole thing is a sham and a fraud from beginning to end. Then he is a model letter writer. I have got bushels of letters from him that would make delicious reading, I assure you. I understand that he has a pile of extracts from newspapers a foot high concerning his company on which he proposes to base unnumbered libel suits. He keeps a clerk employed in arranging these clippings in a scrap book. He is a genius in his way, and all these congressmen who are making such a fuss over him are wasting time. There is nothing in the whole thing. My money is all there ever was invested, and my stock is all there is of the company. I only wish I dared talk more; but I'm afraid of Jacob. He is a terror."

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, May 12.

The select committee on woman suffrage, by three to two, agreed to recommend the adoption of Lapham's joint resolution by the following constitutional amendment:

Article 16, section 1. The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any state on account of sex.

Sec. 2. Congress shall have power by appropriate legislation to enforce this article.

House.

The river and harbor bill was reported and ordered printed and recommitted.

An effort to report the bill to suspend issue of silver certificates and limit coinage of silver to the requirements of the people met with objection.

Crapo then called up for consideration the bill to enable national banking associations to extend their corporate existence.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA.

The Point Barrow Expedition.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—Sergeant N. Gorom, signal officer in this city, has received a dispatch from Washington instructing him to look up a vessel suitable to be sent to the relief of the Point Barrow expedition. Several vessels have been examined, and it is probable that one of the small coasting lumber schooners will be soon fitted up and placed under command of Signal Service Officer Lieut. Joseph S. Powell, who is expected to arrive here in about two weeks. The party at present at Point Barrow are mostly signal service officers, under command of Lieut. P. H. Ray, who left on the ill-fated Rodgers, July 18, 1881.

The California Tichborne Claimant.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 13.—Ferris, alias Sir Roger Tichborne, the California claimant, mentioned some months ago in these dispatches, is again in the city. His attorney says that recently he has been put in connection with three persons residents of this state, formerly in the employ of the Tichborne family. One Charles Burden was page to Sir Edward Doughty, Tichborne's uncle, recently public administrator of Tuolumne county; another is a woman living in Alameda county, who was in employ of the family for twelve years, and married in 1855 in Tichborne's private chapel. The third is a man formerly employed as gardener by Sir Henry Tichborne. These three met Ferris at the attorney's office last Saturday, and after conversation recognized and acknowledged him as Roger Tichborne. Arrangements are now being made for Tichborne to visit Father Lefebre, his former spiritual adviser, now living in Paris.

A Stupendous Claim.

The Chronicle publishes a story that James U. Reavis has set up a claim for a Spanish grant of 3,400,000 acres in Arizona, beginning at the base of the Maricopa mountains and running thence east, including the Gila valley and the lower valley of Salt river. He bases his claim on a deed given about twenty years ago by Miguel Peralta, of San Diego, to Reavis and Geo. M. Willing, the widow of the latter selling to Reavis. The grant was originally made to the Peralta family by Ferdinand VI. of Spain in 1748. The transcript of the record is filed in the church archives of the old mission of San Francisco Xavier and preserved by the Indian bureau of the Catholic church. The tract claimed embraces Maricopa, Casa Grande, Phoenix, Florence, Pinal, Globe, Riverside and other mining districts. In the guise of a newspaper correspondent Reavis has traveled over Arizona and Mexico, hunting records and preserving certified copies and photograph fac similes. He has interested some capitalists in his claim.

Suicides.

TULARE, May 13.—Yesterday about noon a young man named Geo. Harper was found hanging to a willow tree on Tule river, about five miles from Porterville. He left his house in the morning in apparent good spirits, and about noon his brother found him hanging dead. Deceased was eighteen years old.

IDAHO.

Suicide at Silver City.

SILVER CITY, May 11.—Benjamin F. Wilbur on Friday night last took poison at the War Eagle hotel. He took two or three kinds of poison, so they could not tell what to do for him in case he was discovered before he died. He left a written statement that he was tired of facing the future any more, and said the county owed him enough to pay his funeral expenses.

ARIZONA.

The President Denounced.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 12.—A Tombstone dispatch says: An immense demonstration occurred at Charleston to-night to denounce the president's proclamation. Speeches were made and resolutions passed condemning the president and advisers.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

Arabi Bey Declares for War.

LONDON, May 13.—English and French ironclads will proceed immediately to Alexandria, and the remainder of Europe will be represented by Austrian and Italian men of war. The chamber of notables unanimously refused to assemble unless legally convened. When Arabi Bey heard their decision he exclaimed, "Then we shall have civil war." A military demonstration is momentarily expected. In the event of Turkish intervention Arabi Bey intends to withdraw with troops into the citadel of Cairo, taking the principal Turkish pashas as his hostages. Stone Pasha has resigned, not desiring to violate his oath to the khedive.

Maritime Miscellany.

PERNAMBUCO, April 13.—The greater portion of the cargo belonging to the Am. ship T. J. Southard, which sailed from New York January 29 for San Francisco, and was wrecked March 1 near Natal, Brazil, was brought here and will probably be sold at auction.

Ordered to the Mediterranean.

LONDON, May 13.—The admiralty has ordered the channel squadron now in dock to be ready Saturday, the 28th inst. It will proceed to the Mediterranean.

The Sultan's Declaration.

CAIRO, May 13.—Sultan Pasha has informed Arabi Bey if the army insists on deposing the khedive, Bedouins will enter Cairo. The khedive evidently has Bedouins at his back, and seems master of the position.

Wants no Protection.

LONDON, May 13.—Parnell has not applied for police protection.

TELEGRAPHIC SPARKS.

A party of German iron moulders for Pittsburg arrived at New York yesterday.

The canister found on the Mansion House railing Friday was filled with blasting powder.

Emperor William was on the ground at Potsdam, Friday, while the conflagration was in progress.

People of advanced ideas are never slow to recognize that which will result in the greatest benefit to their wealth, health and happiness; such people never fail to perceive the great benefit resulting from the use of St. Jacobs Oil, when afflicted by rheumatism. Wm. H. Waring, Esq., Ass't General Superintendent Third Division Mailing and Distributing Department, New York Postoffice, in writing concerning St. Jacobs Oil says: "The reports from the several superintendents and clerks who have used the oil agree in praising it highly. It has been found efficacious in cuts, burns, soreness and stiffness of the joints and muscles, and affords a ready relief for rheumatic complaints." Hon. T. L. James, now Postmaster-General of the United States, concurred in the foregoing.

Eastern Freight Situation.

NEW YORK, May 13.—The clipper freight market remains much the same as has been noted the past month or two, and there is nothing that can be said in its favor. Shippers have about got through, and the next thirty days promises to be very quiet. On the inside of the market there is quite a rivalry between agents, and they are trying to secure contracts from such shippers as have heretofore shipped by railroad. To this end Mr. Geo. Dearborn, of the firm of Van Vleck & Co., left for San Francisco the early part of the week, and after visiting merchants will go to Portland on the same errand. The other line will also send its junior partner in a day or so. Both lines are well supplied with first-class tonnage, and prospects favor lively times when trade begins. Rates are steady at $9@9 50 per ton for general freight, $8@8 50 for coal and iron. Oil 35c per case, whisky $2@2 50 per bbl., canned goods 20c per case, nails 35c per keg, cement $1 20 per bbl., and plaster $1 10 per bbl. Tonnage is in better supply at easier figures, the last charters being on a basis of $8 per ton dead weight capacity.

Freights at Boston are moderately active. The North American is in berth and doing fairly. Railroad freights from Boston are quite active. Shipments include 100 packages fish, 200 cases canned goods, 50 cases baked beans, and 40 coils rope.

At Philadelphia there is a also fair business doing by the Richard P. Buck.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

NEW YORK, May 13.—The weather the past few days has been against any movement in general merchandise markets, which are very quiet for the season. The singular backwardness of the season also has a restraining influence upon free distribution of a variety of manufactures.

Breadstuffs—Market while retaining a steady line is very quiet, and there is little or nothing doing for exchange, even at low rates of freight.

Provisions—Quiet but steady.

Rio Coffee—Firm but dull.

Refined Sugars—Good general demand, but easy tone; crushed, 10⅝c.

Teas—Slow; auction rooms furnish all supplies.

Foreign Fruits—Quiet and prices steady.

Dried Apples—Firm for sun-dried, but evaporated easy.

Hops—Very quiet and prices steady.

Borax—Fair demand prices steady.

Quicksilver—Offered at 40⅝@41½c with no demand.

Hides—Very firmly held, which restricts transactions.

Leather—Active and very firm.

Turpentine—Dull again and lower.

Resin—Also quiet and lower; strained worth $2 35.

Petroleum—Moderately active and steady.

Crude Sperm and Whale Oils—Very firm with only moderate business.

Hardware—Very quiet and prices easier.

Nails—Uncertain demand and prices lower.

Pig Iron—Irregular in price with standard brands of Nos. 1 and 2 steady.

Pig Lead—Moderate demand at 4½.

Other Metals—Dull.

Wool—Market on the whole is very dull and prices low. Sales of California include 60,000 pounds new spring, private; 30,000 pounds fall, 13@15c; 10,000 pounds spring, 18@27c. At Boston the market is fairly active with sales of 39,200 pounds California spring at 25@29½c.

Furs—Much easier.

Skins—The general market is without change, a fair demand prevailing for attractive goods and buyers submitting to former rates; but trashy lots now coming to hand find poor favor when offered at low figures.

Shipping Notes.

The Am. ship Importer brings 335 Chinese passengers and 350 tons freight consigned to Allen & Lewis.

Dutch bk Antonia, 363 tons, cleared from Newcastle, England, April 21st for Columbia river, via Java.

Br. str Meath, which left Portland for San Francisco for cargo, has sailed for Hong Kong with flour and merchandise.

The British steamer Pilay has gone ashore near New York City and will probably be a total loss. She has 36,000 bags of coffee from Rio.

On the night of September 15, 1878, while feeling her way cautiously into this port from Port Augusta, in the midst of a thick fog, the Br. ship Jessie Osborne struck on a rock at Tennessee cave, near the entrance of the harbor, and was abandoned to the underwriters on the 18th. She was in ballast at the time and under a wheat charter at 60s. She was owned by W. A. Brown of Glasgow, was built at Dumbarton in 1874, and was valued at $60,000. The wreck was sold on the 19th, two days after being stranded, to Goodall, Perkins & Co. for $2150. She was raised from her perilous position, brought to this port, extensively repaired and strengthened, and her name and flag changed. She has since been known as the Mariposa. She is the only American iron ship owned at this port. The Mariposa left this port for Liverpool April 28, 1879, and arrived out August 23d, in a trip of 117 days. She then went to New York and loaded for this port, arriving back May 21, 1880, in 132 days. August 25, 1880, she left here for Queenstown, arriving out on the 16th of December, in a trip of 113 days. She arrived back here from Fleetwood July 30, 1881, in 137 days. Sailed again for Liverpool August 7, 1881, arriving out December 5th, in 120 days. Yesterday she came back from Liverpool in a trip of 115 days. She is now discharging coal and will load back with wheat this month. S. F. Bulletin.

SEALED TENDERS FOR RAILROAD TIES

WILL BE RECEIVED UNTIL 12 M., MAY 15, 1882, for furnishing two hundred and thirty-two thousand (232,000) cross-ties along the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway, between Emory and Burrard Inlet, viz:

Twenty-five thousand (25,000) thereof shall be delivered at Port Moody station, or at a point on the line of said railway between Port Moody and Pitt River.

Other twenty-five thousand (25,000) thereof shall be delivered at Pitt River, or between Pitt River and Kanaka Creek.

Other twenty-five thousand (25,000), thereof at Kanaka Creek, or between Kanaka Creek and Stave River.

Other twenty-five thousand (25,000) thereof at Stave River, or between Stave River and Hatzic River.

Other forty thousand (40,000) thereof at Hatzic River, or between Hatzic River and Harrison River.

Other twenty-seven thousand (27,000) thereof at Harrison River, or between Harrison River and the lower end of Maria Slough.

Other twenty thousand (20,000) thereof at the lower end of Maria Slough, or between said lower end of Maria Slough and Tunnel "C" of said railway, which tunnel is about 15 miles below Emory's Bar.

Other ten thousand (10,000) thereof at said Tunnel "C," or between said Tunnel "C" and Tunnel "D," which latter tunnel is about 11 miles below Emory's Bar.

Other fifteen thousand (15,000) thereof at Tunnel "D" aforesaid, or between said Tunnel "D" and Tunnel "E" on said railway.

Other twenty thousand (20,000) thereof at the said Tunnel "E," or between said Tunnel "E" and Emory's Bar, or at Emory's Bar.

All such sleepers or cross-ties shall be delivered alongside the railway and within fifty feet of the center line of the track, and shall be piled up so as not to interfere with the work of construction.

The bottom of the pile shall be as nearly as practicable on a level with the grade of the railway track; and the said pile shall be so made as to permit of ready inspection and counting; and wherever such piles shall be made near water lines, bodies of water or rivers the same shall be placed in such location that the bottom of the pile shall in all events be above the line of high water.

It will be necessary to deliver at least fifteen thousand (15,000) acceptable ties per month from date of entering into contract until completion of same.

Ties must be smoothly hewed or sawed, free from all score-hacks, and chopped or sawed square at both ends, eight feet long, flatted on two opposite sides to a uniform thickness of six inches, the flatted surface being not less than six inches on either side at the small end, and when sawed they shall be eight inches in width and six inches in depth.

All ties must be of sound timber, full size, and acceptable by the chief engineer of said railway, or they will not be paid for.

Ten per cent. will be reserved upon payment of accepted ties until completion of contract, and ten thousand dollars ($10,000) approved security required before signing contract. The security or securities to be given must be described in the tender. The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Tenders to be addressed to the undersigned, Yale, B. C., and endorsed "Tenders for Ties on Contract No. 92."

A. ONDERDONK, Contractor.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN,

THE

Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast in the Treatment of

ALL CHRONIC & DIFFICULT DISEASES

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of disease of the generative organs or private disease. He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as Spermatorrhea, or Seminal Weakness, or Loss of Perfect Vitality. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring either directly or indirectly from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down, and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their misery to existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored. Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint, and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he cures without fail.

Consultation Free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who can not consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for list.

Office—152 and 154 Third St., opposite Masonic Hall. Office Hours—From 10 to 12 A. M., 2 to 5 and 7 to 8 P. M.

All letters of professional business must be addressed to DR. PAUL M. BRENAN & CO., Portland, Oregon.
